GLOBAL COVENANT OF MAYORS FOR CLIMATE AND ENERGY

Part of the IUC Programme, the Global Covenant of Mayors for Climate and Energy is a global alliance of cities and local governments voluntarily committed to fighting climate change, reducing its impacts and providing access to sustainable and affordable energy for all.

In Latin America and the Caribbean there are already more than 400 member cities, from 19 countries, representing over 180 million people who have been positively impacted by the programme.
